Lucy Petrescu Some times ago I've heard a 4 years old girl, asking her father to carry her in his arms because only the poor people are walking. Many snobs are buying crap cars, polluting the environment , just to show-off their social status! The irresponsibility of those able to think from time to time, the lack of education, the bad politics , legislation and poor law enforcement, are some of the main reasons generating the problem!

Plant trees, add greenery on buildings and roofs, ventilate towns through open areas, add humidity in towns by day lighting underground rivers. It isn't difficult. Our air pollution is nature's food.

It's Biodiversity Day!

A world without animals and plants is a world without life!
1,000,000 species are now under the threat of extinction.

The European Commission works closely with international partners such as UN Environment, IPBES, Convention on Biological Diversity, IUCN and more to reverse this trend!

The European Union works to ensure our Planet will not be an empty, lifeless place, but a place where ecosystems are enriched and Nature thrives.

I was trying to execute a project that i called as "Global_event" and later named "whiskey_Square-Global_event" im looking for help around the world,it went to many or i may can say all Geneva base organisations and many or all European Governments directly to EU and UN much more places.more then year of time 100's of mail about it.but im failed to find some help mostly found only auto reply.its about more then all subjects which may concern on the earth and specifically about WAR or innocent killing How ever i was failed find a help to launch the event maybe because of my poor communication skills but,i didnt give up either,im worrying a moment to think if we had launched already if we get under way "whiskey_Square-Global_event" then we may had eliminate or prevent from New Zealand or Sri Lankan innocents killings

"Whiskey_Square-Global_event" its more then a subjects and topic on earth make people life better place with subjects under opportunity,war,refugees,conflicts,justice, poverty,peace, solutions, emergency shelters, humanitarian, social, earth,space <aerospace, transport, eco, digital, resources,oceans and Land, agricultural development <productivity,economic, tourism, tolerance, equality, climate, environment, pollution, health, medical clinical care,hygiene, hunger, wellbeing, accessibility, stability and prosperity, disability, energy, water, sanitation, global Goals, science and knowledge, education, technology, animals, plants, sustainable development, disaster risk, child and woman, community protection, cyber security, Digital , innovation < future platform, creative industries

My only obstacle to realizing my dream idea is finding an able.looking for trustworthy patron with a Global reach to discuss my project

I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to speak Thank you

What do these majestic animals have in common? They are all threatened by plastic pollution!

90% of seabirds are estimated to have plastic in their guts..

We need to act now globally to solve this environmental emergency that hurts our animals, our oceans and our nature.

The European Commission has put in place the first Plastics Strategy in the world to address this challenge.

This past Friday, Norway, backed by the EU, has lead the way to a new agreement: for the first time, trade in plastic waste will be regulated at global level to ensure that it is recyclable!

This is an important victory, but we need to join forces and do more to make sure our planet is healthy and blue!

👉👉 Happy Europe Day 👉👉

On this day, we celebrate the birth of what we call today the European Union.

Robert Schuman, one of the visionaries and founding fathers of the EU said:
"Europe will not be made all at once, or according to a single plan. It will be built through concrete achievements which first create a de facto solidarity."

And indeed Europe is being shaped by its people, it's built in solidarity and it creates what we can call today our home.

We love Europe because we can only work together for a better future for our planet.

We can only work together to protect our nature, and we can only work together to fight climate change.

We can only work together for a better world!
Happy birthday Europe! 🎂

McGlade - Executive Director, European Environmental Agency Advisor to European Union countries under the European Commission

It's not just the fauna - it's the flora, too. In fact, EMFs affect the entire planet. Studies show that vegetation, including fruit and vegetable plants, grow slower, are smaller at maturity and frequently show signs of deformity, along with having a substantially higher concentration of free radicals. These exposed plants also contain a much higher concentration of alamine, which is a substance that indicates stress in plants. A significant reduction in seed production, reduced germination rates, and lower crop yields have all been thoroughly documented in relation to EMF exposure, including low-level radiation like that emitted from power lines.

There's also the well-documented corona that occurs in vegetation close to power lines. It's most common with plants and trees with spiky or segmented leaves. These types of plants that are subjected to EMF exposure develop corona, where the leaves turn dry and crispy. Often, the leaves change color, turning yellow, brown, or grey, and they curl up and die, which hinders the growth and productivity of the plant as a whole. So, not only are we killing off our pollinators, we're also decreasing our crop yield. Again, we're destroying our food sources (not to mention our health and our planet!) for a bit more time on Facebook, or an app and a smart thermostat that lets you turn the kettle on while you're still in the office. Is it worth it?

Today the United Nations Intergovernmental Science-Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IPBES) published the #GlobalAssessment on Nature.

This report assesses changes over the past five decades.

It strikes the alarm.

Humans are threatening 1/4 of all known 🌍 species (1 million!) with extinction, many within decades.

We all need to work together to address land & sea overexploitation, pollution, climate change, invasive alien species.

This is exactly what EU citizens 🇪🇺 told us.

An overwhelming majority of you are increasingly concerned about the state of the natural world.

Our new #EUBarometer survey shows that you are worried about the loss of Biodiversity and want stronger EU action.

We will!

Oonagh Duggan This is great. We in Ireland have been working on the Pollinator plan for a couple of years now and it's really amazing to see take up of actions across many parts of society. However until DG Agri gets real and reshapes The Common Agriculture Policy for the benefit of pollinators, birds and other wildlife as well as healthy food, these initiatives will only scratch the surface of tackling loss of biodiversity.

Their engagement was impressive and they all showed a deep sense of thinking and concern for our society.

They challenged the notion of democracy and they want to see higher moral values in the politic system! Even if their views on the future of the environment are quite pessimistic, they bring the new mentality that we are fighting for! 🌱🌍

Louise Engberg Any legislation that stipulates how many (minimum number related to land area) air quality sensors a country should have?

It is very easy to say that there are no exceedances if you have hardly any sensors up ...and many areas are not covered at all.

Dreaming of a perfect garden & balcony? 🌱🌸

Our little insect friends do too! 🦋🐝

Why not let part of your lawn grow wild, be pesticide-free, with native plants that nourish pollinators?

You can even create insect hotels or grow thyme & lavender for them! 🌿

Barra Dinan That's utter hypocrisy! when you haven't implemented EU directives to protect Special Areas of Conservation in Ireland, where the government has failed over a decade to protect SACs, yet you don't fine them. You also let Ireland abuse EU funding for these habitat protection schemes, another e.g. for protecting endangered Silver Eels in the Shannon River, Ireland got EU funding but failed to provide functional eel and fish passes at Ardnacrusha hydro-electric dam, etc etc etc

We are joining forces with the European Parliament at the "Oceans" conference to make sure our children 🧒🧒🧒 will be able to live in a clean and healthy Blue Planet. 🌊🌍🌊

The European Commission is committed to protect Our Ocean, our vulnerable ecosystems and coastal communities.

The increasing pressure that climate change, tourism, over-exploitation and pollution put in Europe and globally has to be addressed urgently.

Our latest report on the EU 🇪🇺 Marine Strategy shows that to do that, all European governments have to go beyond stepping up their current measures taken;

We have to work jointly and coordinate our actions across borders. We need to implement our designated strategy in a faster and efficient manner.

Together for our Blue Planet 🌊🌍

Happy #GlobalRecyclingDay! Latest Eurostat data show record recycling rates and use of recycled materials in EU!

- Recycling rate of
- plastic packaging almost doubled since 2005
- e-waste from 28% to 41% in last 6 years

www.ec.europa.eu/.../8-0.../295c2302-4ed1-45b9-af86-96d1bbb7acb1

And we aim higher! We have fixed the most ambitious waste management rules in the world, with the highest ever recycling targets: by 2030, 70% of all packaging waste and 60% of municipal waste (65% by 2035) should be recycled, while reducing landfilling of municipal waste to 10%.

And thanks to #CircularEconomy we are turning trash into cash and jobs

No fines or EU action taking against countries like Ireland, who just ignore EU directives without penalty. Is the EU just another agency of hypocrisy? Many people think so, seems like your organisation is a huge waste of resources, when the directives that result from all your work, end up being useless!

Two decades of 🇪🇺 water policy and law have made a positive change. Water quality throughout Europe has improved:

- 74% groundwater bodies ✅
- 40% of rivers & lakes ✅

thanks to:

- urban wastewater treatment
- reduced pollution from agriculture
- more rivers and lakes returning to a more natural state

but many challenges remain:

- still too much pollution from agriculture
- insufficiently treated waste-water
- damaging changes to rivers and lakes (for example dams)
- irrigation
- chemical pollution, including from pharmaceuticals
- #ClimateChange

Learn more with our new 6-yearly report on the progress made in water quality and flood risk management, including our recommendations to each European country: www.ec.europa.eu/.../commission-reviews-progress-made-water-q...

"Star Gran" from Grieg Star shipping company is the first vessel to be scrapped under the new EU Ship Recycling Regulation.

She will now be recycled by the Leyal Group, one of the 26 yards officially recognised by the for their security & environmental standards.

From 31 December 2018, the recycling of all large sea-going vessels sailing under an EU flag can only take place in yards included in the European List of ship recycling facilities. This new regime is the only legally binding and comprehensive instrument on ship recycling in force in the world today, which aims to make ship recycling greener and safer. It is also open to non EU countries.

European Commission rüttelt nicht an Stickoxid-Grenzwerten

Die Europäische Kommission weist Medienberichte zurück, laut denen die Kommission Deutschland genehmige, den Grenzwerte für Stickoxid in Deutschland auf 50 Mikrogramm zu erhöhen. Das ist falsch. Der Grenzwert von 40 Mikrogramm Jahresmittel ist EU-weit verbindlich und von den Mitgliedstaaten beschlossen worden. Daran wird nicht gerüttelt.

Wie die einzelnen Länder diesen Grenzwert erreichen, ist die alleinige Entscheidung eines jeden Landes. Deutschland hat die EU-Kommission über den Kabinettsbeschluss zur Änderung des Bundes-Immissionsschutzgesetzes (am 12. November 2018) informiert, demzufolge Fahrverbote bei in Regionen mit Stickstoffdioxid-Belastungen bis zu einem Wert von 50 Mikrogramm NO2 pro Kubikmeter Luft im Jahresmittel in der Regel nicht erforderlich seien, da der Grenzwert von 40 Mikrogramm durch andere Maßnahmen erreicht werden könne. Fahrverbote werden dabei allerdings nicht vollständig ausgeschlossen – liegen aber im alleinigen Entscheidungskompetenz der Mitgliedstaaten.

Über das Notifizierungsverfahren bei der Kommission können technische Vorschriften bereits vor ihrem Erlass geprüft werden, um sicherzustellen, dass sie mit EU-Recht übereinstimmen. Die Europäische Kommission wird Deutschland noch heute (Mittwoch) fristgerecht antworten.

From 31 December 2018, the recycling of all large vessels sailing under an EU flag can only take place in recognized shipyards 🚢♻️🗑️
European ship owners own 35% of the world fleet. A large percentage of these was dismantled in South Asia, under conditions often harmful to workers' health and the environment. With the full entry into force of the EU Regulation on ship recycling, this is no longer be possible for EU-flagged vessels, which will have to get dismantled in EU-listed yards. Through this initiative, the EU is leading the way to improve social and environmental conditions under which ships are recycled, boosting circular economy.

Today Commissioners Karmenu Vella and Vytenis Andriukaitis visited the yard of Vakarų Refonda in Lithuania.
